Port updates grain cluster progress, holds RR appraisal

By Justin Jaech | THE TIMES

DAYTON - The Columbia Port Commissioners held their regular meeting at 5 p.m. on August 14, 2024, at the port's conference room. Commissioners present were Seth Bryan, Johnny Watts, Mike Spring, and the Executive Director, Jennie Dickin-

There was no public comment during the first opportunity to do so.

The commissioners handled the usual administrative items, including approval of past minutes and the monthly budget. The commissioners briefly discussed next year's budget, due this November.

This fall, a federal financial audit of the port will be conducted due to the use of federal grants this year. It will be the first financial audit since 2003.

Dickenson presented port asset updates. D & C Detailing, operating in the industrial park building five, has renewed its lease for two years.

The director said she and Mainstem Malt are interviewing architects for the Grain Cluster project and sent proposal requests to two architectural firms.

Dickinson said she is considering moving Food Stock up one week after the last two events were held on excessively hot days. On the original date, Food Stock had to wait to open until after the Dayton Alumni Parade finished. By moving the date up a week, the event can take advantage of the cooler temperatures earlier in the day. Dickenson said participants at Alumni Weekend are too busy with their events to attend Food Stock, so there is no advantage in holding it the same weekend.

Following up on the concerns about graffiti on parked railroad cars, Dickinson said the sheriff's department could not act unless they catch a perpetrator in the act. Some citizens had previously told the port they feared the graffiti was gang-related.

According to Dickinson, the CWW Railroad appraisal will cost about $56,000 and is over her signature approval limit. Since the rail operator must pay half the cost, the commissioners will wait for CWW's approval before signing a contract with the appraisal firm.

Spring said he would like to see the CWW Railroad handle passenger cars. The commissioners voted to allow Dickinson to sign the appraisal agreement pending approval of the rail op-

The Rural Broadband project is waiting for funding from BEAD (Broadband Equity, Access, and Deployment), which will not be enough to provide fiber lines for every rural household required by the BEAD funding. An alternative solution will have to be found to provide affordable internet service to everyone in the county.

Spring's Dayton Development Task Force update included efforts to install more benches and bike racks on Main Street. There was a discussion about moving the Sacajawea statue to a location where more people can enjoy it. The task force is also considering installing a splash pad if funding can be found.

In the final public comment period, Dave Harvey said the employee raises in next year's proposed budget were "ridiculously low." He hoped the commissioners would consider better compensation for the port employees.

Deputy Quigg recognized at Dayton City Council meeting

By Justin Jaech | THE TIMES

DAYTON- Mayor Roger Trump called the Dayton City Council to order at 6:00 p.m., August 13, 2024. Mayor Roger Trump and all council members were at City Hall, including Teeny McMunn, Michael Smith, Laura Aukerman, Joann Patras, Kyle Anderson, James Su'euga, and Shannon McMillen.

Ryan Rundell, speaking for Columbia County, reported July dispatch numbers. The city had 433 law enforcement calls and 172 for the county. There were five city fire calls and eleven for the county. EMS calls were 26 for the city and 17 for the county. Rundell said the commissioners were still looking for volunteers from the public to serve on the Columbia County Board of Health.

Sheriff Helm said Chief Civil Deputy Tim Quigg's retirement party, celebrating 43 years of service, would be held at the Best Western Hotel from 1 to 4 p.m. on August 31. Deputy Quigg's wife will host the party.

Congratulations to Chief Civil Deputy Tim Quigg on his retirement from the Columbia County Sheriffs Department after 43 years of exemplary service...

Helm said the department would increase traffic enforcement during the start of school later this month.

The Chamber of Commerce Director, Belinda Larsen, said the chamber awarded grants for storefront improvements to Main Street businesses, including Locally Nourished, Hotel Hardware, and Main Street Salon. She said the chamber was working on installing locally made bike racks downtown. Larsen also reminded everyone to check out the new Vicky's Sweet Shop, describing it as "really cool."

The council handled several administrative items before considering Resolution 1548 to adopt a policy covering Electronic Funds Transfers (EFT). Auditors had recommended a policy since there was no EFT policy. The resolution passed without debate.

The council discussed Resolution 1549 which would adopting a policy on utility shutoffs for nonpayment during extreme heat events. State law prohibits a city from terminating water service for nonpayment during DAYTON - PAGE 4

"Twisters"

THE TIMES

DAYTON — "Twisters" is a stand-alone chapter of the 1996 blockbuster "Twister." The new movie stars Daisy Edgar-Jones ("Where the Crawdads Sing," "Normal People") and Glen Powell ("Anyone but You," "Top Gun: Maverick") as opposing forces who try to predict and possibly tame the immense power of tornadoes.

Edgar-Jones stars as Kate Cooper, a former storm chaser haunted by a devastating encounter with a tornado during her college years who now studies storm patterns on screens safely in New York City. She is lured back to the open plains by her friend, Javi (Anthony Ramos), to test a groundbreaking new tracking system.

There, she crosses paths with Tyler Owens (Powell), a charming and reckless social-media superstar who thrives on posting his storm-chasing adventures with his raucous crew; the more dangerous, the better. As storm season intensifies, terrifying phenomena never seen before are unleashed. Kate, Tyler, and their competing teams find themselves squarely in the paths of multiple storm systems converging over central Oklahoma in the fight of their

LETTER TO THE EDITOR ON BEHALF OF BERTHA CLAYTON

LETTERS

Bertha Clayton and those of us on her campaign committee are encouraged by the primary election results for Walla Walla County Commissioner, District 1. We hope voters will continue their engagement through the General Election on November

Bertha is working hard to meet prospective constituents. I find her eager to educate, engage meaningfully, and respond to inquiries in person via Facebook and on her webpage.

Only District 1 voters had an opportunity to vote in the primary but voters in all three districts are eligible to vote for position 1 in November.

The work of our commissioners is important to all of us and depends on well-informed voters. Registration online and by mail ends October 28th, and in-person registration is open until 8:00 pm on election day. Ballots will be mailed October 18th.

I am impressed with Bertha Clayton, she will act with transparency, is dedicated to public service, and proactively reaching out to constituents. I admire her work ethic and championship of good ideas. Please consider joining me in supporting Bertha for County Commissioner.

WAITSBURG FFA AWARDED 2-STAR RATING

By Karen Huwe | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — The Waitsburg FFA Chapter was recognized as a Superior Chapter and a State Gold National Chapter after meeting goals set forth by the National Chapter Award Program. The chapter qualified in the top ten percent in the State of Washington as a Gold Chapter and competed for National FFA 3-star, 2-star, or 1-star rating.

agriculture. The Waitsburg FFA Chapter exceeded expectations over the years in student involvement, and its well-rounded program is a testament to the leaders and members. The chapter earned a 2-star rating and will be recognized at the next National Convention.

"Recognition like this comes from the members, parents, and community," said FFA advisor Nicole

FFA President for the '24-'25 school year, Alyssa Hollingsworth, said, "I think it is such an amazing achievement for our small chapter. Both the members and officer teams have dedicated time and resources, as well as sacrificing much family time, to better our Chapter these past few years. Not only does being a 2-Star Chapter mean we are becoming more well known and getting our name out, but it also means we will have the opportunity to be recognized on stage at the National FFA Convention."

OBITUARY

William "Bill" Carter

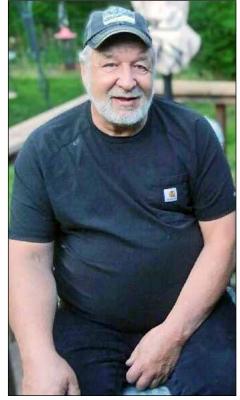

May 4, 1949 – August 12, 2024

Tilliam "Bill" Carter, 75, of Dayton, passed away on August 12th, 2024, at his mountain home. Bill was born in Walla Walla on May 4th, 1949. He was raised in Walla Walla and Grandview and graduated from Grandview High School in 1967. Following graduation, he enlisted in the U.S. Navy and served two tours in Vietnam. He was honorably discharged in 1972 and was awarded a National Defense Medal, a Good Conduct Medal, and Vietnam Service and Campaign Medals with two bronze stars.

He returned to Walla Walla and worked at the V.A. Hospital as a Boiler Plant Operator, where he met his wife, Linda (Romine) Carter. He later accepted a position at the Corps of Engineers as a Mechanical Foreman and managed many dams throughout Washington. He then retired and started B.C. Plumbing and worked as a plumbing contractor for many years in the Walla Walla Valley. He and Linda moved to Dayton in 2004 and built their home on the mountain.

Bill was a member of the Walla Walla 59ers, the Walla Walla Wagon Wheelers, and served as Wagonmaster and volunteer rodeo staff for the Walla Walla Fair & Frontier Days for many years. He was also a member of the Columbia County Planning and Building Commission. He was a true craftsman and could build anything from the ground up whether it was a home, a Harley, or a hot rod, he had a gift.

He is survived by his son, Michael Carter of Kooskia, ID; his daughter, Christina Atteberry of Dayton; his granddaughter, Jessie Atteberry of Spokane; his sister, Wilma Heaton of Springfield, OR; the Juergens family of Patterson, WA; Gordon Farley of Dayton; and his former mother-in-law, Rosalie Kilmer of Walla Walla. He is preceded in death by his parents, Clinton and Katherine Carter; his uncle and aunt, Alvin and Donnabelle Fry; his son-in-law, Clint Atteberry; his former wife, Linda Carter; and his former father-in-law, Fritz Voros.

A Celebration of Life will be held on September 21st, 2024, at 1:00 at the Wagon Wheelers Clubhouse located at 378 S. Hussey St. in Walla Walla. Special thanks to Tom & Elizabeth Jagelski and Juan Arebalos, all the family and friends who visited Bill in his final days, and to Columbia County Transportation, Sheriff's Office and Fire District, Kyle's Towing, and the many Walla Walla and Columbia County citizens who participated in his procession home for the last time. Corbeill Funeral Home of Dayton, Washington, has been entrusted with arrangements. Online condolences may be sent to www.corbeillfuneralhomes.

Clarke named interim WSD Superintendent

Clarke stepped in to serve following Woods' resignation.

THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — Following a special school board meeting on Aug. 16, the Waitsburg School Board voted to select Dr. Carol Clarke as interim superintendent for the 2024-25 school year. This decision comes a little more than two weeks after the board accepted the resignation of former superintendent David Woods, who told staff he was leaving the position due to health issues.

Clarke is a retired Waitsburg School District Superintendent

who retired in June 2017. She has more than 40 years of experience in education, teaching everything from early childhood education to graduate-level classes. She has also been a member of the Waitsburg School Board since Dec. 15, 2021.

As a board member, Clarke recused herself from all discussions regarding the interim superintendent search.

Clarke was offered the position and entered contract negotiations with the district. Once Clarke officially accepts the superintendent position, she will need to resign from the school board before a contract can be signed. The board hopes to approve the contract during its next meeting.

The next step for the board will be to begin its search for a permanent superintendent. They want to have someone selected and in place for the 2025-26 school year. "The Times" will have more information on the superintendent search process soon.

SWIM THE SNAKE DELIGHTED WATER ENTHUSIASTS

THE TIMES

LYONS FERRY — The eleventh annual Swim the Snake, an open-water swim and paddling event, was held on Saturday, August 10, at Lyons Ferry State Park and Lyons Ferry Marina. This event is a fundraiser for the Blue Mountain Resource Conservation and Development Council, a regional non-profit that supports local competitive youth summer swim programs in Southeast Wash. The popular event was first held in 2013.

Twenty open-water swimmers and seven paddlers enjoyed the warm summer day, refreshing river temperature, and negligible winds.

The paddlers started the event at Lyons Ferry Marina and paddled to Lyons Ferry State Park. Once they reached the marina, the open-water swimmers entered the water.

River patrols from Columbia and Franklin Counties, managed traffic in the channel to protect participants. Kennewick's U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary was on course for an added safety measure. The event organizers coordinated with local barge companies and monitored grain growers' river traffic closely before and during the event.

Many volunteers helped guide the swimmers and paddlers across the river, register for the event, check out, and pass out fresh, chilled melon slices and water afterward.

According to participants and event organizers, local volunteers are the backbone of this event.

Swim the Snake depends on sponsorships and donations from local businesses, including Puget Sound Energy, Blue Mountain Community Foundation, Banner Bank, and Dayton Chamber of Commerce. Washington State Parks, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and the Port of Columbia also support this event.

The next opportunity to Swim the Snake will be on August 9, 2025. Organizers will make registration details available by Thanksgiving at www. swimthesnake.org. See you in the river.

I went to a Garden Party

By Vicki Sternfeld-Rossi | THE TIMES

I went to a garden party, and to my surprise, I saw a face that was familiar but out of context. Then it hit me, "I know you from tennis."

First, I thought, "What are you doing here," but asked more politely, "How do you know this group?" It turns out that her husband is a guitarist in the host's band, and they are long-time friends.

It was another connection in this cool web of the Waitsburg, Walla Walla, Dayton small-town labyrinth of friends. And, not that I would have anything bad to say, but it's a good reminder of my mother's words of wisdom.

First, if you have nothing nice to say, don't say anything.

Second, don't ever make a derogatory comment about someone; it will come back to haunt you.

The party was a welcome break with perfect temperatures, great wines, snacks, and a beautiful garden in which to enjoy them. I chatted with friends, met new people, and avoided some of the realities of life

Back home was an unmitigated disaster site waiting for me to clean. I had enjoyed the breezy Saturday evening, so when I went to bed, I left the back door and windows open. Sunday morning, I woke up to a houseful of sand, dust, and grit in every room; the countertops were covered, the floors were like sandboxes, and the windowsills were brown and gritty. Basically, the evening's wind storm covered all the surfaces and crevices with dust and dirt.

Daniel slept in Sunday morning, so there was no chance I could vacuum. I had to get ready to play tennis, so I attempted to start cleaning with a bit of silent sweeping. Then, stupidly, I got out the Swiffer Wet Jet. My floors went from grit to mud.

Giving up on the floors, I cleaned a few countertops and the stovetop, which had been buried under an avalanche. Moving to the bathroom, I cleaned the counter but decided the bathtub could wait until I showered—a twofer.

Arriving home after tennis, Daniel was awake, so I went on a vacuuming mission. Then I pulled out the mop, filled the sink with Murphy's Oil and water, and began mopping. The Murphy's left things a little sticky, so I had more muddy floors. And now they were covered in paw prints because Mugsy was running around the house trying to get me to play with him.

For a break, I went outside to see how the garden was progressing. Cucumbers seem to be slowing down; I think I've had about five total, and I'm not confident I'll see any more. Cherry tomatoes continue to take over the world, with the zucchini a close second. I am happy to say that my acorn squash is doing well.

The star of the garden continues to be spaghetti squash. I've picked four or five with an average weight of over five pounds. I have tons more growing and ready to be harvested. I found homes for some and brought one to the garden party. I hate to come to a party empty-handed, and it was a way to get rid of another squash. Yay, another twofer

Tuesdays are not a tennis day, so I know I will spend more time digging out of dirt, getting Mugsy bathed (always an experience,) and some much-needed weeding.

Most importantly, I will always remember, "Shut the door and windows if it's windy or even a little breezy.

Cars and Cheers as summer ends

THE TIMES

The Cruizin Prescott Car Show was held Saturday, August 17. The well attended show brings out car and truck lovers and thier rides. Waitsburg resident, Karl Newell, took home the Best Old Truck award for his 1951 Chevy Panel truck. He appreciated the Walla Walla Electric sponsored award.

At Cheer Camp this week, Waitsburg City Council member Jillian Henze offered kids 4 to 17 the chance to jump, climb, dance, cheer, and make new friends. Waitsburg Cheerleader Cedar Stegall helped these young campers successfully do a basic stunt called the thigh stand.

[Photo Caption] Waitsburg resident Pam Conover studies a scale model of a proposed sculpture of Waitsburg's founders by Walla Walla artist Jeffrey Hill. The sculpture represents Waitsburg's three founding fathers: Sylvester Wait, William Bruce and William Preston. Hill was one of four artists to present proposals last week to the Waitsburg Arts Commission for two public art pieces to be placed on Waitsburg's Main Street next year.

A pair of new businesses have recently opened their doors in Waitsburg and a pair of existing establishments have moved to different locations. For one of those businesses, moving to the larger, Victorian-appointed storefront will mean a higher profile among Waitsburg's business district. Waitsburg will soon have its own Internet Service Provider (ISP) and computer repair shop thanks to John Stacy's Computer Rx, located in the Plaza Building at 210 Main. Coffee-holics can satisfy their caffeine cravings with an espresso from Waitsburg Station, which has a potpourri of offerings in addition to espresso and copies, located at 130 Preston.

Tomlinson-Black Blue Mountain Realty's branch office is now in the Plaza Building at 208 Main, in the space previously occupied by Linda Hermanns' The Crossroads, which has moved at 141 Main, formerly Mountain Charm Art Gallery. Tomlinson-Black was formerly located at 214 Main.

The spirit of helping one's neighbor is not vet dead in America - at least not in rural America. Sunday, August 18, friends and neighbors of Mike Thompson, Dayton area wheat farmer who died of cancer last week, gathered together for a harvesting bee. A host of 24 combines, 30 trucks and 75 people took part in a massive one-day cut of wheat for the benefit of Thompson's widow, Delores, and her three children. At 8 a.m. the combines and trucks drove into the fields, by 8:30 a cutting pattern, a system, had evolved, and by 1:30 p.m. all hands were answering the cowbell for dinner at the Tim Donohue home just adjacent to the wheat fields. In 5 1/2 hours the entire 360 acres had been cut and trucked to a nearby elevator. Jim Turner, who along with Roy Eslick, organized this neighborly army, said that 84 truckloads had been harvested and he estimated yield at about 70 bushels per acres.

Crispy Parmesan Chicken

The last sweet weeks of summer are always my favorite time of the season. The days are still long, yet thankfully, the scorching triple-digit temperatures are mostly behind us. It is also when our homegrown tomatoes are ripe and bursting with sun-kissed flavor. When tomatoes are as good as they are right now, I mostly enjoy eating them as unadulterated as possible just a drizzle of olive oil and a pinch of flakey sea salt is all that is needed. As a result, I am always in search of recipes for main-course dishes that are perfect to serve alongside my beloved crimson delights. With a crispy crust of salty parmesan and herbs, this flavorful chicken recipe fits the bill. With just a few pantry ingredients, it is also a dish perfect for breezy, no-fuss summer entertaining.

Ingredients:

2 (10-ounce each) boneless skinless chicken breasts

Salt and fresh ground black pepper

½ cup all-purpose flour

- 2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
- 1 ½ teaspoons garlic powder
- 2 large eggs
- 1 cup panko breadcrumbs
- ½ cup finely shredded parmesan cheese
- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- Lemon wedges
- Fresh parsley and basil, coarsely chopped for garnish

Directions:

With a sharp knife, butterfly slice each breast horizontally into two portions, making four portions total. Cover chicken with plastic wrap and use the flat side of a meat mallet to pound each piece to an even 1/4-inch thickness. Generously season each chicken cutlet with salt and pepper on both sides.

Set up your breading station using three shallow dishes. In one dish add the flour, Italian seasoning and garlic powder, whisking to combine. In the second dish whisk the eggs until blended smooth. Then, in the third dish toss together the panko and parmesan until evenly mixed.

Working one at a time, dredge both sides of each seasoned chicken cutlet in the flour mixture first, then dredge in the eggs on both sides, lift and let the excess run off. Last, dredge the cutlets through the panko mixture, being sure to evenly coat both sides while gently pressing the cutlet into the coating.

Heat four tablespoons of the olive oil in a heavy non-stick or castiron skillet over medium heat. When the oil is shimmering hot, add two of the cutlets to the pan and let cook until golden brown on first side, about 4 minutes. Flip and continue to cook until golden brown on other side, about 4 more minutes. Use a thermometer to make sure the chicken reaches an internal temperature of 165 degrees. When done, transfer the cutlets to a plate lined with paper towels to drain. Add the remaining oil to the skillet and repeat the process with the remaining two chicken cutlets.

Serve warm with lemon wedges and a garnish of chopped herbs.

This memorable chicken recipe is special enough for company while being easy enough for a quick weeknight meal. Try serving it with a simple pasta or roasted potatoes on the side. This week, I served it with creamy polenta and a side of perfectly ripe tomatoes from our backyard. A bottle of chilled, crisp rose made a perfect pairing for a marvelous late-summer dinner.

Enjoy.
