This year's Patriot Parade route ended at the Bruce House Museum lawn for a flag dedication. The American Legion Auxillary donated the flag, a new flag pole, and a plaque to the Waitsburg Historical Society. The Waitsburg Scout Troop, with help from Rose Engelbrite and support from scout leader Sarah Roberts, raised the new flag and pole in a challenging wind on July 4. After the flag ceremony, the celebration continued with a hot dog luncheon.

Fort Walla Walla Hosts "Escape from the Territorial Prison"

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA — On Sunday, July 13, Fort Walla Walla Museum will become the hiding spot for a seasoned criminal, Orvy Whipstitch Horvathan, an escapee from the Washington Territorial Prison. He is a member of the Turkey Creek Gang, known for their horse-thieving, cow tipping, and audacious robberies. Fort Walla Walla welcomes visitors to hunt down clues detailing this dastardly escapee's run from justice. Bring your wits and gumption to follow Orvy's trail and help the territorial sheriff find him and his gang of scoundrels.

The all-day game promises to be fun for all ages, taking you through the Museum's grounds in search of clues as you follow the story of this criminal, ultimately revealing his hiding spot. The game is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, July 13.

Pam Myers as Lettice Millican

That same Sunday, the Fort will present a Living History enactment of Lettice Millican. As a widow, she came to Walla Walla in 1859 and completed building the cabin that is now part of the Fort's campus. Lattice was born in 1830, the oldest of 12 children. In 1843, her family headed west on the Whitman wagon train, which carried 1,000 settlers. After her family settled in the Willamette Valley, she married Ransom Clark, who in 1855 obtained a 640-acre donation claim along Yellowhawk Creek. She and Clark came to Walla Walla in 1855 to prove their claim; however, they were driven out of the area by the Battle of Walla Walla in Frenchtown, part of the larger Yakima War of that year. The couple moved to Portland, Oregon, where Ransom died in 1859. Millican returned to Walla Walla that year to complete their claim, and a cabin which is now located in the Museum's Pioneer Village. She was the first white woman to reside in the Walla Walla Valley after the Whitman tragedy. In 1861, she married Amos H. Reynolds, a local banker and mill owner. Lettice Reynolds was known for her interest in public welfare, with numerous liberal benefactions in Walla Walla, including the YMCA building and the girls' dormitory at Whitman College, which was named in her honor. Lettice J. Reynolds died of illness at the age of 81 on June 10, 1911. Pam Myers will portray Lettice Millican Clark Reynolds. The Living History performances at Fort Walla Walla Museum bring history to life through a company of reenactors who portray real people from the past. The company was formed in 1998 by Barbara and Dan Clark. Starting with a dozen post-1800s characters, the portfolio has grown to over 50 historical Walla Walla stories.

Grow with the WSU Master Gardeners

Application for WSU Walla Walla Master Gardener program is open

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA — Throughout the growing season, volunteer Master Gardeners share their extensive knowledge in various gardening practices with their local community. Master Gardeners are university-trained volunteers who provide research-based information about gardening, environmental stewardship, and horticulture topics. They receive in-depth training, often offered by universities or their extension services.

The Walla Walla WSU Expansion Office in Walla Walla is accepting applications for its 2025/26 Master Gardener Program, which begins in October 2025 and ends in March 2026. The program includes virtual, classroom, and field-based instruction by WSU Extension staff and regional experts. Trainees will learn how to provide education and advice on home gardening, pest management, composting, and related topics. Other topics include basic botany, soil science, plant identification, and the diagnosis of pests and diseases.

Once participants have completed the program, Master Gardeners share what they've learned through horticultural-related community service, including plant clinics, virtual and personal contact, demonstrations, and classes supervised and supported by the Walla Walla County Extension program coordinator.

Master Gardeners are also available to provide information at the Walla Walla Farmer's Market and gardening clinics at the extension office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from April through September. Growers can also contact WSU Master Gardeners online to identify insects, plants, weeds, and problems with lawns and plants at <https://tinyurl.com/2srw2zb9>.

Tuition for the Master Gardener training is $275, and a $30 materials fee. The deadline to apply is 5 p.m. on August 15. Applicants must be 18 years of age or older and reside in Walla Walla County to be eligible.

For more information about the training and the application process, visit <https://extension.wsu.edu/wallawalla> or contact Amy Rosenberg at 509-524-2685 and email at amy.rosenberg@wsu.edu.

On July 3, a group of French motorcyclists stopped in Waitsburg on the second leg of a tour to Miami. This is the second year that a Road2Luxe tour has come through town. The guide hoped to stop again at Ten Ton Coffee, and although the shop had returned to being an art studio, the owner was still able to make espresso for all eleven riders. The tour operator promised to come back with next year's group to enjoy Wolfing Coffee.

LADY CARDINALS
SUMMER LEAGUE
BASKETBALL

By Karen Huwe | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — The Waitsburg High School Lady Cardinals have been showing up and putting in the work this summer to improve their basketball skills ahead of the upcoming fall season.

The summer league includes nine schools: Waitsburg, Pomeroy, DeSales, Walla Walla High School, Dayton, Weston-McKewon, College Place, and Milton-Freewater.

Each game consists of two twenty-minute halves.

“We are not keeping track of stats,” said Coach Kira Waggoner. “We are just trying to give everyone equal playing time so that they can practice and improve. I am starting to see growth. The girls are starting to catch on to the little things. They should start putting it all together soon,” she added.

The girls have played six games so far and have six games left. They will play on July 8, July 15, and July 22 at College Place.

The young Cardinals played Pomeroy and Dayton on Waitsburg’s Kison Court on Tuesday, July 1. Assistant Coach Hunter Wallace saw positive developments with the seven girls who were available to play in the first game against Pomeroy. Addison Crenshaw, Cheri Mathews, Joslin Nodine, Olivia Kiefel, Sophia Castillo, Audrey Kiefel, and Kaitlyn Paul played solid defense, made some 3-point shots, and ran the offense with minimal turnovers. (Also playing in the summer league are Kayla Kuykendall and Lillian Carpenter)

The girls will attend a skills basketball camp in Pasco from August 1 to August 3.

Fun start to Parks & Rec
summer camps

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — After the success of last year’s cheer camp, Waitsburg Parks & Recreation added six new summer activities. The first was Skateboard Camp, held at The Slab next to Simply Sawdust.

For three days, eight beginner skaters worked with coaches John Langford, Austin Casey, and Grant Godard to learn the basics and have a great time. Kids love to jump on a board, but they don’t always have the skills or skater’s etiquette to ride safely.

With a focus on safety, coaches began each day with a meet-and-greet, warm-up stretches, and an equipment check. Helmets, mats, and knee pads are only a part of the good safety habits campers learned. They also learned to make sure that the riders and the decks are in shape and ready to ride.

The lesson plan includes instructions on how to fall, get onto the board or deck, balance, push off, turn, stop, and step off.

The next Parks & Rec camp is Volleyball from July 14 to 16. There will be two camps, Pickleball and Baton Twirling, the following week. The series continues in August with Soccer, Cheer, and Fly-Fishing Camps. Each camp is only $30, and those who sign up for all six camps will receive one free.
