Waitsburg Parks and Rec survey

THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — The Waitsburg Parks and Recreation board completed a second survey asking the community to provide input on the direction of the district. The survey showed respondents continue to want the Waitsburg Parks and Recreation District and Friends of the Waitsburg Pool to keep working to make a community pool a reality.

The survey results collected in September 2023 showed clear top priorities. Respondents were asked to rank a collection of priorities that ranged from building and improving infrastructure to creating activities and hosting music events.

60% of respondents said building a new pool was the top priority - up more than 20 points since the spring 2022 survey.

38% of respondents place Waitsburg fairgrounds use, including events, as the second priority.

18% said they would like the district to develop after-school activities and programs as the third priority.

"Our community has told us it wanted the pool to be replaced since the day it closed," said Wendy Carter, Waitsburg Parks and Recreation District commissioner and co-chair of Friends of the Waitsburg Pool. "It's important that children learn how to swim, and it's important that everyone has local access to water exercise. With this feedback, we will continue working to bring a pool back and maintain it for future generations to enjoy."

The city pool has been closed to the public since 2020 due to extensive structural issues, according to the city website.

Because studies show the old pool cannot be repaired, the first step of the estimated 5-year project is to hire an engineer to complete a feasibility study on pool locations. It is critical that these studies are completed so the next pool will last another 100 years.

"We have raised about $40,000 in the past year for a new pool and applied for three different grants - we are close to getting this project off the ground," Carter said. "Volunteers are continuing to identify opportunities to make this community vision a reality while also accomplishing smaller Parks and Rec projects in the meantime, including focusing on the fairgrounds, enhancing Preston Park, and building a new dog park."

The Waitsburg Parks and Recreation District commissioners meet at 6 p.m. on the first Thursday of the month at Ten Ton Coffee. All are invited to attend to provide public comment, share ideas, or volunteer.

Those wanting to donate to the pool project can do so on the Rural Youth Enrichment Services website at www.ruralyles.org. Donation checks can be written to Friends of the Pool and mailed to Rural Youth Enrichment Services, PO Box 371, Waitsburg, WA 99361. Questions, comments, or volunteers can go to info@waitsburgparks.org.

Kirkman House Museum - Sheep to Shawl

WALLA WALLA — The Kirkman House on North Colville Street in Walla Walla was built between 1879 and 1889. William and Isabelle Kirkman moved into the house with their four surviving children, William Henry, Fanny Ann, Myrtle Belle, and Leslie Gilmore.

Around 1919, Mrs. Kirkman gave the house to Whitman College, and the college used the house as a dormitory. The college sold the house in the 1920s, and owners turned it into an apartment building. In the 1970s, The Historic Architectural Development Corporation (HAD) included restoring the Victorian house to its work in Walla Walla, and by 1989, nearly all the rooms were restored.

Waitsburg resident Joan Helm's grandfather was the nephew of Isabella. His Irish aunt met and married William Kirkman after she moved to San Francisco. Helm assists at the Kirkman House Museum, including at the Sheep to Shawl event on Saturday, October 7.

On the sunny fall day, visitors enjoyed demonstrations on how sheared wool is carded, dyed, spun into yarn, and then woven, knitted, or crocheted. Helm, her daughter Jackie, and her friend Deanne Johnson demonstrated knitting in front of the museum.

Jessica Duncan displayed an assortment of the yarn processed at her custom fiber mill at Nine Tree Farm. After Jessica and her husband, Jim, settled on their property outside of Dixie, they fell in love with sheep, specifically Finnsheep and Gotland sheep that provide the wool.

There were also animals at this family event, including two six-week-old lambs, Prince and Dixie. Their owner, from Dixie, let kids pet the lambs, answered questions, and gave spinning wheel demonstrations.

In addition to the lambs, there were two well-behaved miniature horses, eighteen-year-old Callie and sixteen-year-old Mylie. Lori Conall, founder of "Little Equine Angels" from Richland, said the diminutive horses were not rideable but could pull a cart up to ten times their weight. Conall offers a safe place for a child to experience personal growth and self-discovery. Equine encounters provide a non-traditional and effective method to help children observe and develop effective relationship skills.

Kids at Saturday's event were able to lead the horses over an obstacle course, and Callie shook their hands if they rubbed her leg and said, "Shake."

Other activities for children included decorating russet potatoes to look like Mr. Potato Head.

Attendees were able to enter a drawing to win a beautiful shawl, hand-knitted with 100% Merino wool from Italy. The drawing will be held on December 9, 2023, at the Victorian Christmas Open House. The annual holiday event will offer Living History performances, music, carolers, and good cheer. The museum will highlight festive colors and traditional Victorian-era décor.

The Kirkman House rooms were open for viewing, including the Adam West room, where you can enter the Bat Cave. There are Victorian dresses on display and a piano that came "around the horn" for Fanny's eighth birthday in 1881.

In the parlor, music was provided by Fiddl'n Ranger and Friends from the Tri-Cities. Waitsburg musician Kate Hockersmith was a guest guitar player, joining Reade Obern (fiddle), Kathy Caldwell (fiddle), Dan Caldwell (guitar), and Jim Sapp (banjo), who entertained guests from noon to one.

The Sheep to Shawl is an annual event at the Kirkman House Museum, and this was the first time that Allen and I, with our grandson Elijah, have attended. It was time well spent.

The Museum's other events are the Museum Murder, Victorian Tea, Victorian Christmas, and Kids First program. Check out their website to learn more, kirkmanhousemuseum.org.

A side note: The Fiddl'n Ranger & Friends, a Bluegrass club, has weekly jams in Kennewick. Their annual Bluegrass Festival is held on the second Saturday in June. Mark your calendar to attend their free event held at Sacajawea State Park on June 8, 2024. The event runs from 3-9 pm. You can also check them out on Facebook.

DAYTON COMMUNITY MEMBER SEEKS DONOR

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

DAYTON — Time is of the essence for Dayton resident Lisa Naylor as she moves up the national transplant waiting list. She has been on the list since 2018; the average wait can take five years or longer.

This week, she will start dialysis to help maintain her level of health as she waits for a new kidney. She will need the treatment for the rest of her life or until she receives a transplant. While a transplant would not cure her kidney disease, it would significantly increase quality and extend her life.

Many Columbia and Walla Walla County residents know Naylor as an active and generous community member. She has organized the annual "Swim the Snake" event at Lyons Ferry since its inception. She has been a part of Camp Wooten for 30 years, working with Dayton sixth graders on the four-day outdoor educational trip.

Working with the "Just a Pool" committee and the Friends of the Dayton Pool, Naylor is committed to bringing back a public pool in Dayton.

Now, Naylor is asking anyone interested in becoming a living kidney donor to contact Providence Sacred Heart Medical Center for more information. An online questionnaire to see if you are a possible candidate is available at www.sacredheartliving-donor.org. Donors can name a specific person to receive their kidney or be matched to someone who needs a transplant.

Living-donor organ transplants are associated with fewer complications than deceased-donor transplants and, overall, a longer survival of the donor organ, according to the Mayo Clinic.

National Kidney Registry provided the following information on the estimated timing for testing and surgery:

	Screening & Testing
1	Confidential screening/medical history	45 mins
2	Center will contact you	3 days
3	Complete standard workup	3 days
4	Get cleared for donation	1-4 months

	Surgery & Recovery
1	Complete Pre-op	1 day
2	Complete surgery	1-5 hours
3	Recover in hospital	1-4 days
4	Refrain from flying	1 week
5	Recover at home	1-4 weeks

*Most people can return to normal activities after 2-4 weeks. Donors with physically demanding jobs may need 4-6 weeks of recovery before returning to work. High-performance athletes will need six months to a year before returning to pre-donation performance levels.

AT THE LIBERTY: "A Haunting in Venice"

THE TIMES

DAYTON — "A Haunting in Venice" is set in eerie, post-World War II Venice on All Hallows' Eve. It is a terrifying mystery featuring the return of the celebrated sleuth, Hercule Poirot. Now retired and living in self-imposed exile in the world's most glamorous city, Poirot reluctantly attends a séance at a decaying, haunted palazzo. When one of the guests is murdered, the detective is thrust into a sinister world of shadows and secrets.

Critics at Rotten Tomatoes give this movie a 75% favorable rating, and audiences agree with a 77%. The critics there say this is "A darker and spookier spin on Branagh's Poirot, A Haunting in Venice is a decent Halloween snack whose undemanding mystery gets a lift from nifty visuals and an all-star cast." The movie is rated PG-13 for some strong violence, disturbing images and thematic elements. IMDb rates this movie 6.8 of 10, and that website's parent's guide states there is moderate violence and gore, as well as moderate levels of frightening and intense scenes. All other categories are rated mild or none. This movie has a runtime of 103 minutes.

Message from The Liberty Theater staff:

We have been experiencing many last-minute attendees, which creates issues for us to adequately serve the public and start the movie on time. Please arrive at least 15 minutes before the show is scheduled to start to enable us to serve everyone and start to movie as scheduled. We appreciate your cooperation.

VOTE FOR THE POOL, VOTE FOR PROP 1

To the Editor:

I join with you and your publication that this community, Columbia County, NEEDS a public swimming pool.

Community members have been working hard since the closure of our beloved pool after the 2017 season. We are SO close!

This fall, Proposition #1 will ask voters to approve creation of a POOL DISTRICT, under the state regulations that guide Parks and Recreation Districts, RCW 36.69.010. Approving a district is CRITICAL to move forward to build a facility that meets the needs of our community.

A POOL DISTRICT can:

Compete for grant funding to design and construct a pool.

Seek funding through foundations, and legislative entities to support a pool.

Establish fees, rentals and use of the facility for participation.

AND many, many other powers and functions to successfully operate a pool.

A POOL DISTRICT also includes seating five Commissioners whose jobs are to direct and administer district pool activities. We have seven dedicated, highly qualified residents who would like to represent a Board of Pool Commissioners. Any five would be great to resurrect our pool and YOU decide through your vote. PLEASE VOTE!

BUT - None of this works UNLESS the County VOTES YES on Proposition #1 Please support the effort to bring our pool back!

A community pool improves the lives of all residents offering water safety, youth and adult enrichment, spirited competition and long-term health for all!

Respectfully submitted,
Lisa Naylor
Dayton, Wash.

CORRECTION

The Oct. 5 article "Dayton community pulls together for city pool measure" incorrectly stated that Chuck Beleny and Kevin Rust were Friends of the Dayton Pool (FoDP) members. Beleny and Rust are members of "Just a Pool," a group of community members who opposed the proposed metropolitan parks and recreation district. The group worked to create a pool-only parks and recreation district through Proposition 1.

CARDINALS VOLLEYBALL BEAT THE REDHAWKS

By Karen Huwe | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — The high school volleyball team had a busy week, playing two league matches on their home court and three matches in the Kiona Benton Tournament.

Against Prescott on October 3, the Cardinals lost the match 13-25, 25-15, 20-25, 16-25. “The girls fought hard for each point. The spirited fans helped them keep their energy up,” said Coach Barron.

Seniors Peyton Struckmeier, Kylee Henry, and Makenna Barron played well at the net, and senior Alyssa Seagraves and junior Alyssa Hollingsworth contributed with digs and aces.

The Cardinals beat winless Touchet in three straight sets on October 5: 25-16, 25-9, 25-14 giving them a 2-7 record.

“Tonight was hard. This team faced a tragedy, pulled together, and came out with a win. Madison Kaehler stepped in tonight to play middle hitter for us and had outstanding net play. The support from the community was amazing tonight as well,” said Barron.

Henry recorded 12 aces, Barron contributed with six kills, and freshman Kayla Mikesell had three kills and four aces.

The girls who traveled to Ki-Be on Saturday, October 7, had the opportunity to play in a tournament setting for the first time. Coach Barron associated the noise level and multiple games at once, which messed up their focus.

“They were finally able to relax and play their game in the third set against Zillah,” said Barron.

Against Toppenish, the team lost 8-25, 16-25, 17-25. Ki-Be beat the Cardinals 25-8, 25-11 and 25-13. In the third match of the day, the Cardinals lost 13-25, 13-25, and 23-25.

On October 5, Cardinal volleyball players, coaches, families, and community members wore red, white, and blue to honor the memory of Melissa Harting. As the names of the girls on the HS team were called, they each put a rose and a flag on the bleachers in her place as their names were called. In recognition of her intense love for the country, “Proud to be an American” was played as the evening ended.

Landscapes at ground level

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG — Landscape drawings and paintings by Barb Jaksa will be exhibited at WAG in Waitsburg from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, October 14, 2023. Jaksa creates landscapes from a road-level view, making them feel intimate and familiar.

“I am a contemporary artist inspired by the Western landscape I have extensively traveled. I first visited the area in 2016 and recently returned to Waitsburg. I was drawn to the expansive and inspirational Palouse of southeastern Washington,” said Jaksa.

The artist documented roads on her many cross-country bike trips in past exhibits. Her accuracy in abstractions describing road cuts and grades would make the routes recognizable to anyone who has ridden them.

The charcoal drawings in this show were recently done, representing roads Jaksa has walked since returning to Waitsburg.

“While taking walks outside of town, the surrounding loess dunes and early morning sun provide a play of light and shadows spread across the manicured wheat fields,” she said.

Through Main Street alleys and up rural roads, these images are specific and beautiful.

Describing her process, “I take photographs, using them as reference in my studio to enhance my memory and vision.”

This body of work consists of 30 charcoal sketches and drawings based on the local landscape, complimenting five paintings inspired by the geography of the Pacific Northwest.

Hitting the Wall

By Vicki Sternfeld-Rossi | THE TIMES

“Hitting the wall” is an expression runners use when they have exhausted themselves and can go no further. Over the years, I’ve heard this expression used for other situations; in my case, it’s work. I have “hit the wall” and written and plan to submit my resignation letter, effective December 31, 2023. Despite fears that my brain will turn to mush, I’ll be bored, have nothing to do, or will eat myself into oblivion. I am ready – I think!

I remember when my father announced we were moving from New York for a warmer climate. His arthritis had become so painful that he drove to work sitting on his hands and steering the car with his shoulders in winter. He loved New York, but the weather was harming his health and ability to work; he had hit his “wall,” and our relocation was planned.

Although my mother was not happy leaving our family in New York, she accepted the move wouldn’t be too horrible because we also had family in Los Angeles. Unfortunately, my father decided we would move to Tucson, Arizona. He knew someone there and heard there were plenty of opportunities for his commercial plumbing business. So, when my father declared that we were moving to Arizona, my mom hit her wall.

However, she exacted a price to go over that wall. My father had to agree to allow her to refurnish our new home with Ethan Allen Colonial furniture. A deal was struck, a wall was climbed, and off we drove. The adventure of our drive is a whole other column.

After we landed, she hit stores and catalogs until we had a home filled with furniture we all hated. As it turns out, too much of a “good thing” was even too much for her. We were all stuck behind the wall of colonial furniture for way too long. To this day, I have no interest in wood furnishings. It’s glass, chrome, and laminate modern for me.

Tucson in the early 1960s was an interesting place (not in a good way). Not a lot of growth, but lots of cactus, heat, and mafia intimidation. After a few years of attempted interference by the mafia to obstruct my father’s business, he hit another wall. A move was planned, and off to Los Angeles, we moved.

I was ecstatic because we were leaving the land of heat, cacti, gray pebble lawns, gray pebble roofs, gray sidewalks, grayed down paint colors, all to reflect the heat, then add in scorpions, tarantulas, and the occasional flash flood.

Currently, there are no walls in my way. But winter is coming, and the icy fog, snow, and winter doldrums are imminent. Less socialization, less tennis, mud, dirt, digging out of snow, and blasting the heaters to avoid frozen pipes. My nemeses, my wall, and my greatest frustration: frozen pipes.

Last year, we were diligent and did everything advised, including weeping all the water faucets when the temperature fell below twenty degrees. We were semi-successful, and water continued to flow, just cold, no hot water. This year, we will again try to push through the wall of winter as we miss the warmth of Los Angeles. Daniel and I grew up where winters were snowy and cold, and there are no excuses for us. We will scale that winter wall.

This is a perennial ‘Best Buy’ from the big magazines, and for good reason. Priced around $15, it’s got big flavors that are hard to find in inexpensive Cabernets. Coach Joanna Lanning admits that her initial expectations for the WP boys' cross-country team were relatively low, especially as compared to last year's successful season. Of the five runners – the bare minimum required to qualify as a team – only E. J. Meserve was a seasoned runner, and he had yet to run to his potential. Meserve is joined by junior Tyler Shafer, who has never before competed in X-C and three freshmen: Kyle Gradwohl, Jared Farley, and Skylar Wood. "Out of those five, our senior was the only athlete who put in the miles required over the summer," said Lanning. "Summer miles are vital to be competitive and reach your full potential. It's like money in the bank."

MY RECIPES Luke Chavez

Artichoke White Lasagna

When it comes to satisfying casserole dinners, bubbling in the oven, few are as popular as lasagna. Over the years, I have collected many variations on this homey favorite, from vegetarian delights to meaty classics. While traditional red sauce is usually what comes to mind first, lasagna can also be layered with pesto, or as in this recipe, with a creamy white sauce. Filled with mushrooms, artichokes, and spinach, this lovely version is perfect for a cozy family meal, or for a memorable dinner party that will surely impress your guests.

Ingredients:

- Olive oil
- 8 oz cremini mushrooms, chopped
- 1 tablespoon fresh rosemary, chopped
- Salt and fresh ground black pepper
- 1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
- 1 (14-ounce) can artichoke hearts, drained and chopped
- 2 to 3 cloves garlic cloves, chopped
- 1 (5-ounce) package baby spinach
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- 4 cups half-and-half, or whole milk
- Ground nutmeg
- 12 ounces dry lasagna noodles
- 8 ounces cottage cheese (heaping ¾ cup)
- ½ cup grated parmesan
- 1 large egg
- 1 cup low-moisture mozzarella, shredded

Directions:

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Prepare a large pot of salted water. In a large skillet, heat 3 tablespoons of olive oil over medium-high heat. Add the mushrooms and cook stirring occasionally, until they start to release their liquid, about 5 minutes. Add the rosemary with a pinch of salt and continue to cook until the liquid is cooked off. Add the red wine vinegar and scrape the bottom of the pan. Continue to sauté until the mushrooms are golden brown and shiny, about another 5 to 8 minutes. Transfer the mushroom to a bowl and set aside. Return the skillet to medium-high heat. When hot, add ¼ cup of olive oil along with the chopped artichoke hearts and cook, stirring occasionally, until the artichokes are soft and golden, about 10 to 15 minutes. Add the garlic and cook until fragrant, about another minute. Add the spinach, cooking until wilted, about 2 to 3 minutes. Season with salt and pepper then transfer to a large mixing bowl and set aside. Next, make the béchamel sauce. In a medium saucepan, melt the butter over medium heat. Whisk in the flour and cook, whisking constantly until smooth, about 1 to 2 minutes. Slowly pour in the half-and-half, continuing to whisk constantly. Raise the heat and bring to a simmer, then immediately reduce the heat to continue a gentle simmer. Continue to cook, whisking occasionally, until the sauce thickens to the consistency of gravy, about 15 to 20 minutes. Take off the heat and season to taste with salt, pepper, and a generous pinch of nutmeg. Add half the béchamel to the bowl with the artichokes and spinach. Stir to combine and set aside to cool, for about 15 minutes. While the mixture is cooling, bring the large pot of water to a boil. Cook the lasagna noodles to package directions, then drain and rinse with cold water. Meanwhile, add the cottage cheese, parmesan, and egg to the artichoke mixture. Season with salt and pepper.

Assemble the lasagna. In an 8- by 12-inch baking dish spread a thin layer of the béchamel on the bottom. Lay a single layer of lasagna noodles in the pan then spoon all the mushrooms evenly over the pasta layer. Next, spread half of the artichoke mixture over the mushrooms. Over this, lay another single layer of the pasta, pressing down and trimming the ends if needed, then spread half of the béchamel. Finish with another layer of noodles, the remaining artichoke mixture, and ending with the last of the béchamel. Evenly sprinkle the mozzarella over the top.

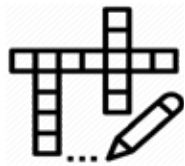

Bake the lasagna until the sauce is bubbling around the edges and the cheese on top is evenly browned around 20 to 25 minutes. When done, remove and let the lasagna rest for 20 to 30 minutes before cutting.

Notes:

- To save a step, this recipe would also work wonderfully with no-bake lasagna noodles. Instead of baby spinach you could try any favorite green such as kale or arugula.
- I served this with a crisp salad of radicchio and apples simply dressed with lemon and olive oil. A light and dry red wine rounded out a lovely meal. Enjoy.
