Dayton School Board vote to dissolve Athletic Combine

By Justin Jaech | THE TIMES

DAYTON – The Dayton School Board held its regular meeting on November 16, 2022. Members of the school board were present, Chair Jeffrey McCowen, Grant Griffen, Korinda Wallace, Aneesha Dieu, and Zac Fabian. Also present were Superintendent Rich Stewart and Business Manager Jana Eaton.

Resident Jeff Milsten offered the following proposed resolution to the Board:

"All teachers in Dayton Schools are encouraged to always teach factually, always teach truthfully and without bias. This includes teaching the reality that Jesus Christ is the most influential person who has ever lived, that Martin Luther's teachings from the Bible did dramatically influence Europe, then the world, and that major ways of being and events in world history have significant Christian influence.

"That the Bible is by far the most published and influential book ever written, which means all students should have at least some Biblical awareness."

He asked the Board "to publicly say that this can be taught." He plans to make the same presentation at the state level.

In the Athletic Director's report, Sam Korslund said the Middle School wrestling turnout was up to seven boys and one girl. High school wrestling has four registered students, but only two actively participate due to job conflicts on weekends. Carlos Norris has been hired as their coach.

The superintendent's report focused on his efforts to meet with groups and community members, including the Dayton City Council. He also reviewed maintenance issues.

Eaton said in the budget status report that things were "looking very good."

The Board Chair moved to hold the executive session before the agenda's action items. Stewart prompted the Board, asking if they wanted to have the executive session before or after the action items since it is normally done afterward. Dieu said she wanted the executive session before the action items to have a "brief discussion," saying she would only need about fifteen minutes. Apparently, the executive session was to discuss the fall sports coach's contracts.

The action items on the agenda were:

- Recommendation to approve the disposal of surplus weight equipment
- Recommendation to approve a Perkins Grant
- Recommendations on which Fall sports coach contracts to renew
- A recommendation to dissolve the DW Combine.

The Board went into executive session at 6:46 p.m. and returned to public session at 7:02 p.m.

After returning, the first two recommendations were approved without discussion. Korslund said that based on his performance reviews and observations throughout the season, he recommended renewing the contracts for two coaches and non-renewal for one. The Board approved Korslund's recommendations without discussion.

Korslund spoke first concerning the DW Combine. He read a letter he sent to the Dayton and Waitsburg superintendents. he expressed feeling he'd been treated unfairly and dishonestly by the Waitsburg School Board and administration for months.

He listed a series of complaints, starting last year, about his time as the Athletic Director for the DW combine.

He accused a Waitsburg Board member of altering fall sports

Its Dayton's Christmas Kickoff weekend

THE TIMES

DAYTON—This weekend is the 2022 Christmas Kickoff in Dayton, Wash. Every year, the community comes out and proves that it is the town that still believes.

Preparations started with volunteers who created the Festival of Trees in the historic building at 219 E. Main Street. Organizations and groups have been working on their lighted floats for the parade up Main Street on Friday, November 25, at 6:00 p.m.

After the parade, sing along with the choir at the tree lighting in front of Elk Drug, watch fireworks from the Courthouse lawn, and take a bus tour of the Home Lighting Contest entries.

And for those who love a good dash, there is the 5K for serious runners and the Ugly Christmas Sweater 5K Dash for the holiday fashion challenged on Friday morning.

There are plenty of four-legged friends to share the holiday with this year. On Friday, the reindeer are on South 1st Street from noon to 3 p.m. They are tough to follow, but Izzy the Camel will do his best by taking up the spot from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Free mule-drawn hayrides on Friday and Saturday.

The Liberty Theater will present "How the Grinch stole Christmas" at 3 p.m. on Friday and a matinee on Sunday of "The Sound of Music."

Santa will be ready for his photo op on Saturday and Sunday at the Festival of Trees. On Friday, he will be there for selfies from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. On Saturday, Santa is back from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

On Friday, there's beer and wine tasting with Chief Springs and Red Band Cellars at 270 Main Street from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

On Saturday, there will be a Christmas market at the Historic Depot from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Boldman House will host piano music from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Dayton Chamber of Commerce thanks all the sponsors and everyone who has kept the town believing. Check out the full schedule of activities and the list of sponsors in the ad on page five.

SHERWOOD TRUST AWARDED $203,200 IN IMPACT GRANTS

THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA—Sherwood Trust awarded 16 local organizations $203,200 in Impact Grants.

“It’s inspiring to be able to support so many good ideas and programs with Impact Grants this year,” said Hunt. “We’re especially happy that of the 16 organizations funded, 12 are receiving Sherwood Trust funding for the first time.”

Sherwood Trust competitive grants include Core Grants awarded in the spring and Impact Grants awarded in the fall. Impact Grant awards were limited to $15,000 and this year favored collaborations or organizations not previously recipients of Sherwood Trust grants.

With the Impact Grant awards, Sherwood Trust grants to local nonprofit and governmental agencies this year total $1,170,411, said Hunt.

Sherwood Trust awarded 2022 Impact Grants to the following:

- $10,000 to Blue Mountain Therapeutic Riding to support equine-assisted therapy for behavioral health.
- 15,000 to Columbia County Community Network to support Friends of the Fairgrounds’ completion of the Pavilion restrooms and access ramp at the Columbia County Fairgrounds.
- $15,000 to Common Roots Housing Trust to support its hiring of an executive director.
- $10,000 to the Milton-Freewater Ministerial Association to support its work serving people with urgent needs in the Milton-Freewater area.
- $15,000 to Power House Theatre towards its upgraded sound system purchase.
- $15,000 to Prescott School District towards the purchase of child development equipment.
- $15,000 to Shakespeare Walla Walla to support strategic planning.
- $15,000 to The Health Center to support assessments and medical care for homeless youth.
- $13,120 to Sustainable Living Center to help fund establishing a garden and related activities for students at Davis Elementary School in College Place.
- $10,000 to The Rural Alliance to support inclusive family and community engagement in Prescott and Touchet school districts.
- $10,000 to the University of Washington SMART Center (<https://smartcenter.uw.edu>) to support youth mental health and suicide prevention for families in Walla Walla and College Place school districts.

- $15,000 to Walla Walla Child Advocates (<https://tinyurl.com/bddsju4m>) to support opportunities for children and youth in foster care.
- $15,000 to Walla Walla Community Hospice (<http://www.wwhospice.org>) to support Spanish-language outreach and grief support services.
- $11,600 to Walla Walla Immigrant Rights Coalition (<https://www.wwirc.org>) to support The Walking Institute, a site-specific bilingual community walks led by immigrants and first-generation community members.
- $8,480 to Walla Walla Public Schools Foundation (<https://www.wwpsfoundation.org>) to support farm experience for elementary school students.
- $10,000 to Walla Walla Sheriff’s Foundation (<http://www.ww-sf.org>) to support trauma kits for rural schools and buses.

“Sherwood Trust is fortunate to be able to support essential, local nonprofits so they can provide a wide range of services that benefit all of us in the Walla Walla Valley,” said Sherwood Trust Board President Paul Schneidmiller.

KELLIE ROSE IS THE BOMB!

The recent Waitsburg Times interview with pop artist Kellie Rose is what drove me to attend her recent concert at the Royal Block.

Her life story told in the Times article about her years of hard work, dedication and unwavering determination to become the professional that she is made me really want to see her do her thing.

Her live performance and sound was way, way bigger than any solo performance I’ve ever seen! She not only sang and played guitar, she used a doubling pedal unit to a beautiful effect often sounding like a 5-piece band!

I found her original songs romantic and haunting at the same time.

Her sound is current and even a bit urban with rapid fire lyrics which will definitely appeal to the younger fan base out there.

Good luck to you, Kellie and hopefully you’ll come back to us before you become too big for our little ‘burg!

CALL TO LOCAL NONPROFITS FOR EFSP FUNDING

United Way of the Blue Mountains call for applications from local nonprofits to request funds.

THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA—Walla Walla County has been awarded Federal funds under the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board Program. The United Way of the Blue Mountains, Wash., has been chosen to receive $27,020 under the Emergency Food and Shelter Program (EFSP) to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in Walla Walla County.

The selection was made by the National Board chaired by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security’s Federal Emergency Management Agency and consisting of representatives from the American Red Cross, Catholic Charities, USA, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA, The Jewish Federations of North America, The Salvation Army, and United Way Worldwide. The Local Board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

The Local EFSP Board will determine how the funds awarded are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service agencies in our area.

Under the terms of the grant from the National Board, local agencies chosen to receive funds must:

- 1) Be private voluntary non-profits or units of government
- 2) Be eligible to receive federal funds
- 3) Have an accounting system
- 4) Practice nondiscrimination
- 5) Have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food or shelter programs
- 6) If they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board.

Program funds are used to provide the following, as determined by the Local Board in funded jurisdictions:

- Food, in the form of served meals or groceries/food boxes
- Lodging in a mass shelter or hotel
- Rent or mortgage payment
- Utility bills

In keeping with the emergency nature of this award, agencies must submit their applications online no later than 3:00 p.m. Friday, December 30, 2022. For more information, visit <https://www.uwbluemt.org/EFSP> registration documents to benefit their child, and claimed the WSD Superintendent and Board Chair did not support his claim.

Korslund said students from WSD received incorrect and more lenient requirements for sports participation than was agreed on by the two districts. He said the Dayton students received and followed the correct information.

Korslund said he had lost trust in the Waitsburg School Board and the Waitsburg administration and that he had submitted his resignation as combine athletic director several weeks earlier. Since Korslund was unable to create a working relationship with WSD he recommended that the school districts have their own athletic directors and the athletic combine should be dissolved.

The interim superintendent agreed with Korslund’s recommendation, “We’ve come this far; there’s a chance for a new beginning. We can move forward. It doesn’t have to be in a combine situation. My recommendation to you is that at the end of the middle school boys’ basketball, we dissolve the middle school combine this year. And at the end of the school year, we dissolve the total combine and move forward as independent districts in our athletic co-curricular programs.”

Stewart said this had been an ongoing discussion between him and the Waitsburg Superintendent for about a month. He said, “It’s not working as well as we wanted it to. It’s become divisive and more contentious.”

McCowen gave a synopsis expressing regret at what has happened and called the combine “an unhealthy marriage.” He said the combine was “not working for all kids.”

A baseball coach for the combine cautioned said that the two school districts operating independently would not have enough participants to field a team or be competitive.

He said he knew that the Waitsburg School Board also felt the Dayton School Board had not been communicative. He criticized the Dayton Board for publicly accepting and rejecting coach candidates for the next season. He said the matter should have been handled more discreetly in the hiring process. He said it was time for us “all to be adults.”

Dieu said the benefit of the combine did not outweigh the “very, very, important negatives.” She then moved to dissolve the combine as recommended by the superintendent. The recommendation passed unanimously.

Due to a scheduled conference, the Waitsburg School District held its regular board meeting on the same night. The Board did not have the combine on the agenda or discuss the matter.

The Times will cover the November board meeting and the WSD’s reaction to the DSD board’s decision to dissolve the athletic combine in next week’s paper.

A DICKENS RETELLING AT GESA

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

WALLA WALLA — Experience “A Christmas Carol: A Ghost Story” in a creative retelling offered through the Live-Cinema program at Gesa Power House Theatre.

Mark Gatiss, an actor and creator well known for his work in the series “Sherlock,” wrote and stars as Jacob Marley in this retelling of Dickens’ classic winter ghost story. This powerful tale of life, love, loss, and redemption is as relevant today as when the original was published 179 years ago.

“Gatiss’s script is surprisingly faithful, given his flair for imaginative reworks of canonical stories (from “Dracula” to “Sherlock,”) and some dialogue is unchanged along with the words of the narrator (Christopher Godwin)” The Guardian.

On a cold Christmas Eve, the mean-spirited and miserly Ebenezer Scrooge, played by Nicholas Farrell, has an unexpected visit from his former business partner Jacob Marley’s ghost. Marley, played by Gatiss, is in chains as punishment for a lifetime of greed. He explains it isn’t too late for Scrooge to change his miserly ways to escape the same fate, but first, he’ll have to face three more eerie encounters.

Nottingham Playhouse

Though the story will be familiar, Gatiss’s attention to the original’s dark humor and use of special stage effects makes this a fresh look at the classic. Dickens’s storytelling had a theatricality, and this production brings it out with the help of puppets, lighting effects, and a spectral cloud of ghosts that suddenly emerge and swing around the auditorium.

The Theatre will present two screenings of “A Christmas Carol: A Ghost Story” on Thursday, December 1, at 7:00 p.m. and Sunday, December 4, at 2:00 p.m.

The real Trapp Family Singers

By Lane Gwinn | THE TIMES

This November, our community has enjoyed live performances of the musical “The Sound of Music” at Dayton’s Liberty Theater.

If you know who Julie Andrews is, then you probably know the story of the Van Trapp Family from the movie “The Sound of Music.” Maria, the impetuous postulate-nun-turned-nanny, won over the heart of the strict, ex-naval captain widower and his seven talented children.

The actual Van Trapp family was more human and complicated than their screen and stage counterparts.

It turns out that Georg von Trapp was the soft touch of the family, and Maria was the one who needed to lighten up. Like the character, the real-life Maria was a novice nun sent by the abbey to be a nanny before taking her vows.

Maria arrived at the Von Trapp home in 1926 to care for only one, not all seven children, who was recovering from illness. The other six were in boarding school, so there was probably no marching or choral harmonizing when she arrived.

Within a year, Georg fell in love and asked Maria to marry him. According to her autobiography, Maria was not immediately taken with Georg. He was 25 years older, and she was emotionally unavailable. However, in his proposal, he asked her to marry the family. Her love for the children convinced her to give up her future at the abbey to become their mother.

The family, including Georg, had enjoyed musical activities before Maria arrived. It was only after the family lost its fortune in the worldwide depression of the 1930s that the family considered performing in public. Maria had already tightened the belt, letting go of most of the servants and taking in boarders by that time.

In a 1978 Washington Post interview, Georg and Maria’s daughter Eleonore said, “It almost hurt him to have his family onstage, not from a snobbish view, but more from a protective one.”

After the wedding, the von Trapps stayed in Austria for another eleven years, leaving in 1938 after Nazi Germany annexed the country. As in the play, Georg von Trapp refused to fly the Nazi flag at his estate and refused a commission in the German Navy. Not included in the screenplays was that he also rejected a request to sing at Hitler’s birthday party.

Fortunately for the family, they did not have to climb every mountain, or at least the Swiss Alps, to escape. They could leave the country in daylight, driving over the border the day before it closed.

Trapp Family

The Trapp Family with all ten children.

After touring on a visa to perform in the United States, they eventually decided to settle in Vermont. In 1942, the family bought a 660-acre farm in the mountain community of Stowe, where they first opened a music camp and then the Trapp Family Lodge. The mountain resort lodge, still owned by the von Trapp family, is now on 2,500 acres and continues to offer Austrian-inspired architecture, style, and music.

Maria wrote the “Story of The Trapp Family Singers” in 1949. The book was the basis for the Rogers and Hammerstein Broadway musical “The Sound of Music” in 1959 and later the 1965 movie starring Julie Andrews. With each version, there were changes from the original book. Ten kids became seven, and the order changed.

In real life, the oldest von Trapp child was Rupert, but in the film, it’s a girl, a sixteen-year-old going on seventeen, Liesl.

“In the real family, my oldest sister was Agathe, and she was a very introverted person,” says Johannes in an interview with the BBC, “and the thought of her doing that song and dance routine with the telegraph boy had us all rolling in the aisles in stitches.”

Both were box office hits; however, Maria did not receive any financial gains from the productions as she had sold the rights to her story to a German producer in 1949.

The book that started it all, “Story of The Trapp Family Singers,” by Maria von Trapp, is still available in paperback, or you may be lucky to find a used hardback edition. A more recent book, “Memories Before and After the Sound of Music: An Autobiography” written by the eldest daughter Agathe von Trapp at age 89, was published in 2010. It is also available in print and digitally on Amazon at <https://tinyurl.com/4y7np8dd>.

And, of course, if you are lucky, you may still be able to get tickets for the production at The Liberty Theater in Dayton at www.libertytheater.org. The hills are alive with the sound of music.

Wine of the Week

Truffle Hill
Chardonnay

The national wine press unfortunately branded the 2020 vintage as a failure in Oregon due to wildfire smoke. But as the wines have emerged, and I’ve tasted hundreds of them, it’s clear that the 2020 white wines were exceptional. Why? Because it was a great vintage until the smoke hit, and these grapes were picked before it got smokey. As with so many other 2020 Oregon Chardonnays, this exceeds all expectations. It’s leesy, with a palate-refreshing yeastiness, and anchored on a core of lemon, grapefruit and refreshing wet stone flavors. Barrel-fermented and aged in French oak puncheons, this delicious wine won’t break the bank or your liver. It’s just right for near term drinking.

Catch the Lifting Bug

By Karen Huwe | THE TIMES

WAITSBURG—Waitsburg High School has updated its weight room to improve safety and to increase interest and participation in athletic programs, according to Gabe Kiefel. The school board approved the purchase of four sets of weight racks, weights, benches, and floor pads.

Gabe Kiefel

The school was able to keep equipment in good shape for many years; however, the equipment has since worn out or become outdated. Safety is the number one priority. All the school's athletic programs have utilized the weight room over the years, and students deserve safe and effective equipment.

Kiefel stated that there had been an increased interest and participation in the weight room. A solid group of students has committed to a zero-period. They come to weightlifting before school three days a week, arriving at 5:30 in the morning to work out. Kiefel teaches a Sports Anatomy class where his students utilize the equipment to apply concepts learned in the classroom.

When the equipment arrived, it was like Christmas. Sports Anatomy, zero-period students, and football players were so excited that they stayed after school for multiple days to assemble everything.

Kiefel shared that he was passionate about fitness and loved sharing his passion with the students. An exciting thing happens with weightlifting; once someone makes it through the initial soreness, the positive feelings associated with lifting weights are significant. Students can feel the changes as they become more confident in their abilities, perform better in athletics, and feel better about their appearance.

Add that to the satisfaction of getting up early to accomplish something for yourself, and it is no wonder that kids have caught the lifting bug.

FOREST GROVE, ORE—"My experience playing football is something that some do not have the chance to do, so I make the most of it every chance I get," said Shawn Evans.

Evans, WHS class of 2021, is in his second year playing football (tight end) at Pacific University in Forest Grove, Oregon, while getting his degree in Sports Leadership and Management.

Evans' Pacific University coach, Ian Falconer, wanted the Waitsburg coaches to know that he is very grateful for their time developing Evans into a great football player. The staff at Pacific are happy and proud to have Evans as a part of their football family.

Away we Go!

By Vicki Sternfeld-Rossi | THE TIMES

I am excited, anxious, and busy. I'm getting ready to meet Daniel in Portugal. Starting in Lisbon and then on to Spain to have dinner and explore the Guggenheim Museum in Bilbao. Next to San Sebastián for the day, because there's a restaurant Daniel wants to go to. Food and restaurants are always his focus. My one food request is to stop in Marseilles, France, to eat bouillabaisse. He agreed, so it better be good!

As timing would have it, I broke a wisdom tooth a week and a half before I am to leave. I had planned to schedule an extraction for that tooth in Los Angeles, but I procrastinated. Now with the jagged tooth, I visited a local Walla Walla dentist who said I had the distinction of the most challenging extraction she had performed in over nine years. Lucky me.

As time got closer to my departure date, the tooth did not cooperate and I developed "dry socket," an excruciatingly painful condition. I head back to the dentist this afternoon for another look. With my luck, I fear that the molar next to the missing tooth could also be problematic. The thought of an emergency root canal a week before I travel to Europe is both disheartening and frightening.

And if that were not enough of a damper to the excitement for this trip, I tripped, walking a good bottle of wine over to a neighbor's house. I fell, landed on my knee, and broke the bottle of wine. I drove to Elk Drugs and picked up two knee braces, which were too large to help.

Not being a stranger to injuries, I iced and elevated the knee. Experience counts, and other than a scraped knee, I am fine. I will be wearing slacks, jeans and leggings in Europe.

I am mentally packing, and soon, I will have to actually pack. I keep watching the weather at my destinations, which though warmer may also be rainier than home. In fact, there are flood warnings in Marseilles. I may have to forgo my bouillabaisse.

Daniel has texted me numerous reminders that our flights between cities are on small planes, so pack light and don't bring carry-on luggage that won't fit under the seat. I'll try, but with my propensity for injury, I will be packing plenty of Band-Aids, ace bandages, Advil, Neosporin, antiseptic, and prescriptions. And plenty of allergy pills to protect me from his sister's cats. That alone is one carry-on bag. Throw in a change of underwear in case of overnight flight delays, earphones, iPad, neck pillow, chargers, and a book, and there's no way I'm going to have only one carry-on.

Even with my scraped knees and tooth pain, I am excited to be going. I've never been to the cities we're traveling to, except for Milan, where it will be nice to see his family again. So, bon voyage to me and I'll send notes from the road, as long as I don't break another wrist, or some other body part, or eat myself into oblivion.

Unique shopping at The Corner Village

By Aerylle Geason | THE TIMES

HUNTSVILLE—With Thanksgiving here and Christmas coming in hot, the holiday season is in full swing. There is so much to love this time of year, whether it be the seasonal food, cool temperatures, fall colors, or twinkling lights. The Corner Village is a goldmine of holiday gifts and seasonal décor. If shopping for yourself or others brings joy, you will want to know about one of the area's best-kept secrets.

Nestled along the highway between Waitsburg and Dayton in Huntsville is the mother and daughter owned business. The owners have placed five mini-buildings on the property to create a shopping "village." Each building is dedicated to a holiday and is well-stocked and filled with countless charming trinkets.

There is a building for Halloween and Thanksgiving, three dedicated to Christmas, and the last is for outdoor lawn décor and solar lights. In addition to the shops, there is another building where ceramic painting classes are held.

Having opened their gates for business just over a year ago, Vicki Beckmeyer and her daughter Cara

Watts are just starting this new adventure. Asked how this venture came about, Watts explained that they sold the flower shop in Dayton to be available for their grandchildren, but then they got bored, so they created The Corner Village. Now they have the best of both worlds; time with their family and a creative outlet to keep them busy. They are not bored, as ideas are not lacking between this pair of masterminds.

They have plans for The Corner Village, focusing on creating events and activities for kids in the community. There is an outdoor area with a small playground that is great for young children, with room to expand. Watts mentioned adding equipment for a broader range of ages.

Beckmeyer described their plans for 2023 Fall activities, including visits from Santa's workshop characters on weekends in November and December of the coming year. You can expect to see haystacks, pumpkins, and a visit from The Grinch in the coming year.

Fortunately, you will not have to wait an entire year to find a reason to visit after this holiday season ends. To the right of the village buildings, lavender and flower bulbs are bedded for winter. Come spring, customers will be able to come cut fresh blossoms.

This article only touches the surface of what is available at The Corner Village. You will want to stop by and see this enchanted space for yourself. Beckmeyer and Watts are happy to help with shopping needs, discuss hosting events and birthday celebrations, and share their plans for their unique business.

Through December, the shops are open Friday from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Open-class ceramics painting sessions are held between 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursdays. For the most up-to-date information and to find out about events, you can find The Corner Village on Facebook or contact Vicky Beckmeyer directly at (509)-337-6706.

Marine Pvt. Delbert H. Benson, son of Marge A. Benson of this city, recently completed basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego. Benson, a 1997 graduate of Waitsburg High School, successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally. Benson and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Benson spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat, and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cohoon celebrated their 60th Wedding Anniversary on Saturday, November 18. The couple was married in Sandpoint, Idaho on that date in 1912. Walt was in the laundry business, and at one time operated a laundry in Waitsburg. He homesteaded in Boardman, Oregon, in the early 1920's, then was in the building business until his retirement. The couple moved to Waitsburg from Walla Walla in 1950. The Cohoons have two children: Mr. Ellis Cohoon of Silverdale, Washington, and Mrs. Kenneth Shelton of Dayton. Three grandchildren; Mr. John Cohoon, presently attending Central Washington State College in Ellensburg; Mrs. Michael (Carolyn) Lilley in Bremerton, Washington; and Mrs. Mike Bruce of Moscow, Idaho. The Cohoons would enjoy hearing from their friends.

It is with tears in our eyes that we thank A. Mikkelsen and family for a great big Thanksgiving turkey this week. We had all we could possibly eat, which by the way, is saying a good deal for a printer.

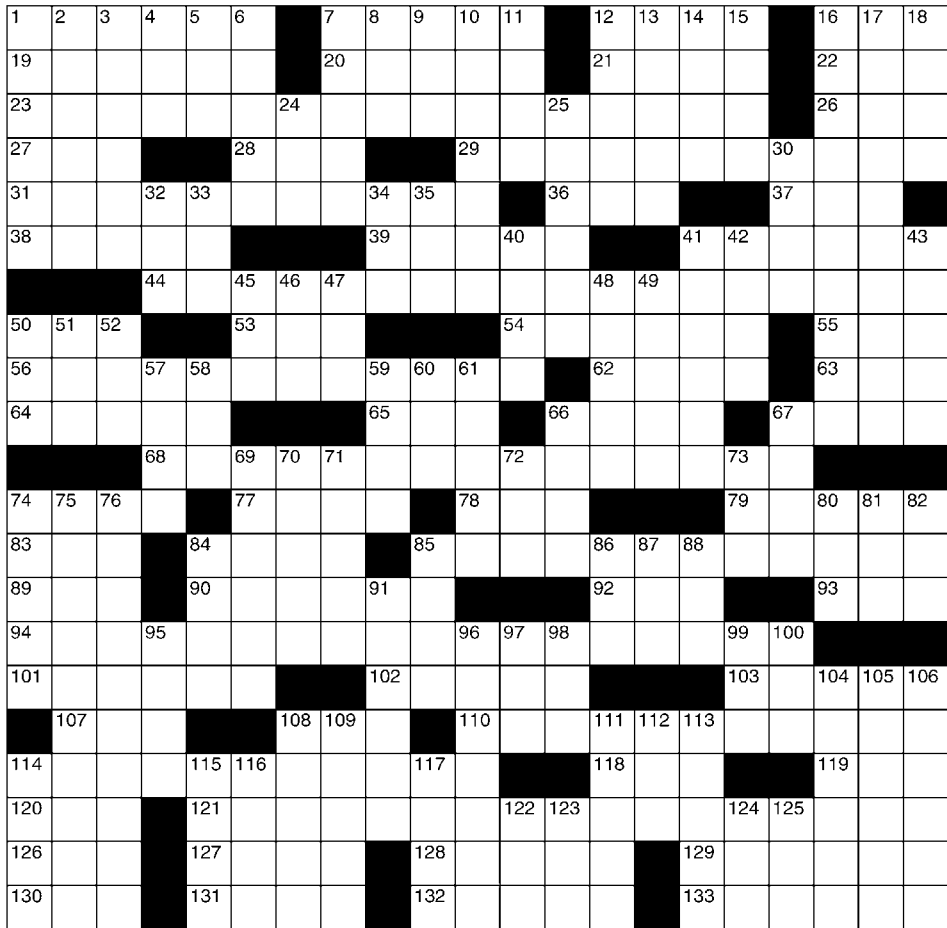

We have been having a slight touch of winter weather this week. It has not been very cold but considerable snow has fallen at different times only to disappear under the influence of rain.

Turkey Pozole

The day after Thanksgiving you can always find me back in the kitchen, enjoying the peaceful quiet after the holiday, and making a batch of turkey stock. As the kitchen fills with the rich aromas coming from a bubbling stock pot, I like to make plans for the versatile leftover turkey meat. Following an indulgent day full of butter and heavy foods, a pot of brightly flavored soup is a welcome meal choice. One favorite option is this variation on a traditional Mexican soup called Pozole. The deep earthy flavors of dried chilies are combined with sweet hominy in a nourishing broth. This soup is a beautiful celebration of ingredients native to the Americas; chilies, maize, and of course, turkey. A lovely way to be thankful for the contributions indigenous cultures have made to our culinary culture.

Ingredients:

- 5 dried ancho chilies
- 5 dried guajillo chilies
- 3 dried arból chilies, (optional, for spicier soup)
- ½ white onion, quartered
- 3 cloves of garlic
- 1 tablespoon dried oregano
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 25-ounce cans of white hominy, drained and rinsed
- 3 bay leaves
- 1 tablespoon cumin
- 1 to 2 pounds leftover turkey, about 4 cups
- 6 to 8 cups turkey stock, homemade or store-bought
- Juice of one lime
- Salt
- For serving:
- ½ head of cabbage, shredded
- 1 white onion, diced
- 1 bunch cilantro leaves, chopped
- 6 radishes, thin sliced
- 4 limes, quartered

Directions:

Remove the stems, seeds, and veins from the chilies. Place the chilies, ½ white onion, and garlic cloves in a large pot. Add just enough water to barely cover the chilies, about 3 to 4 cups. Bring to a boil then turn off the heat. Allow chilies to soften and reconstitute for 15 minutes. Next, add the chilies, garlic, onion, the soaking liquid, and the oregano to a blender jar. Blend until smooth for 1 minute. Strain the chili base through a mesh strainer over a bowl. Use a rubber spatula to gently press all the liquid out to the pulp. This will take a few minutes of time and patience. Discard the pulp.

Using the same large pot that you boiled the chilies, heat 3 tablespoons of oil over medium-high heat. Pour in the strained chili base and reduce heat to maintain a gentle simmer. Cook for 30 minutes until the base has thickened and darkened in color.

While the chili base is cooking prepare the hominy. Add the rinsed hominy, and bay leaves to a large soup pot and cover with 2 inches of water. Bring to a simmer, add a pinch of salt, and allow to cook uncovered while you prepare everything else.

Remove any bones and skin from the turkey meat, and shred into 1-inch pieces. Set aside.

Assemble soup. Pour the prepared chili base into the soup pot with the hominy. Stir in the cumin and shredded turkey. Season with a couple pinches of salt and add 4 to 6 cups of the turkey stock. Bring to a boil, then reduce the heat and gently simmer uncovered for 30 to 45 minutes. Add more broth as it reduces. Take off the heat and add the lime juice. Taste and adjust seasoning, adding more salt as needed. Serve immediately or keep warm on low heat until ready. Serve in large bowls with plates of garnish on the table to allow guests to fix it up as they like.

Notes:

Don't let the amount of dried chilies scare you. The spice is very mild and balanced by the richness of the turkey. To ensure this, make sure you take the time to remove all the seeds and veins from the dried chilies. When working with dried chilies, it is helpful to wear gloves, and remember to avoid touching your eyes or face until you have washed your hands.

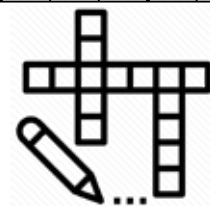

The fresh raw vegetables used to garnish the top of the soup are an integral part of the flavor profile. You could also add chopped avocado to the options. Have the fresh garnishes arranged on a large platter for passing, or if serving a crowd have smaller plates of the garnishes available on either end of the table. I like to serve this soup with soft homemade tortillas for dipping. Tortilla chips would also be good. Enjoy!
